

BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT. FRIDAY.

FOREFATHERS' DAY.

The Mayflower's Passenger List.

The history of the settlement of Plymouth, in 1620, is a subject with which all citizens of our country are, to a greater or lesser extent, familiar; few, however, realize the extreme suffering experienced by this little band, and the fact that of the 102 passengers who sailed on the Mayflower, fifty of these had perished before the arrival of the Fortune on Nov. 10, 1621.

The Pilgrims who had resided in Holland about twelve years left there on the Speedwell, July 31, 1620. On the 23d of August they put into Dartmouth on account of the leaky condition of their vessel, having sailed the 15th of August with the Mayflower from Southampton with 120 passengers.

They sailed on Aug. 31 again, but were obliged to put into Plymouth, abandon the Speedwell and leave eighteen passengers, one of whom was Robert Cushman. They left Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 16, and arrived at Cape Cod Nov. 21, 1620, after sixty-six days' passage. A sketch of the future lives of those venturesome pioneers is of special interest at this particular season.

John Alden was hired as a cooper at Southampton, with a right to return to England or stay in New Plymouth. He chose to stay, and married, in 1623, Priscilla Mullins. He was chosen an assistant in 1633, and served from 1634 to 1639 and from 1650 to 1659. He was treasurer of the colony from 1656 to 1659. He was deputy from Duxbury in 1641-2, 1645 to 1649; a member of the Council of War 1653-60 and 1675-6; a soldier in Captain Myles Standish's company, 1643. He was the last survivor of the signers of the compact of November, 1620. He died Sept. 12, 1687, aged over eighty-four years.

Bartholomew Allerton, born in Holland in 1612, was in Plymouth in 1627, when he returned to England. He was son of Isaac.

Isaac Allerton, tailor, of London, married at Leyden, Nov. 4, 1611, Mary Norris from Newbury, Berks County, Eng. He was a freeman of Leyden. His wife died Feb. 25, 1621, at Plymouth. Allerton married (2) Fear Brewster, who died at Plymouth, Dec. 12, 1634. In 1644 he had married (3) Joanna —. He was an assistant in 1621 and 1634 and deputy governor. He was living in New Haven in 1642, later in New York, then returned to New Haven. He died in 1659.

John Allerton, a sailor, died before the Mayflower made her return voyage.

Mary Allerton, daughter of Isaac, was born in 1616. She married Elder Thomas Cushman. She died in 1690, the last survivor of the Mayflower passengers.

Remember Allerton was another daughter living in Plymouth in 1627. Another daughter, Sarah Allerton, married Moses Maverick of Salem.

Francis Billington, son of John and Eleanor, came in 1620 with his parents. In 1634 he married widow Christian (Penn) Eaton, by whom he had children. He removed before 1648 to Yarmouth. He was a member of the Plymouth military company in 1643. He died in Yarmouth after 1650.

John Billington was hanged in 1630 for the murder of John Newcomen. His widow, Eleanor, who came over with him, married Gregory Armstrong in 1638, and who died in 1650, leaving no children by her.

John Billington, a son of John and Eleanor, born in England, died in Plymouth soon after 1627.

William Bradford, baptized in 1580 at Austerfield, England, married Dorothy May, who was drowned in Cape Cod harbor on Dec. 7, 1620. He married (2) 1623, widow Alice (Carpenter) Southworth. He was governor 1621-33, 1635, 1637, 1639-44, 1645-7. Deputy governor 1632-3, 1639-92. Assistant 1634-5, 1637, 1638, 1644, 1658-81. He died May 9, 1657.

Love, Brewster, son of Elder William, born in England, married —, daughter of William Collier. He died Duxbury in 1650. Member of the Duxbury company in 1643.

William Brewster, born about 1580 at Scrooby, England, was elder of the church at Leyden and Plymouth. His wife — came over with him and died before it was. He died April 18, 1643.

Wrestling Brewster, son of Elder William, came at the same time, died a young man, unmarried.

Richard Britteridge died Dec. 21, 1620 being the first death after landing.

Peter Browne probably married the widow Martha Ford; he died in 1633.

William Butten, a servant of Samuel Fuller, died on the voyage.

Robert Carter came as a servant of William Mullins, and died during the first winter.

John Carver came with his wife Catherine, and both died the following spring or summer. He was deacon in Holland, and was chosen the first governor; he left no descendants.

James Chilton died Dec. 8, 1620, before the landing at Plymouth, and his wife shortly after. Their daughter Mary, tradition states, romantically, if not truthfully, was the first to leap on shore; she married John Winslow, and had ten children.

Richard Clarke died soon after arrival.

Francis Cooke died in Plymouth in 1663. By his wife Esther he had a son John, who came with him; the son married Sarah, daughter of Richard Warren. On account of religious differences, he removed to Dartmouth, of which he was one of the first purchasers. He became a Baptist minister there. He was also deputy in 1600-8, 1673 to '81, 83, '86. The father and son were both members of the Plymouth military company in 1643.

John Cooke died at Dartmouth after 1694. Humility Cooper returned to England and died there.

John Crackstone died in 1621, his son John who came with him died in 1623.

Edward Doty married Faith Clark, probably as second wife, and had nine children, some of whom moved to New Jersey, Long Island and elsewhere. He was a purchaser of Dartmouth, but moved to Yarmouth, where he died Aug. 23, 1635. He came as a servant to Stephen Hopkins, and was headstrong and wild in his youth, being a party in the first duel fought in New England. Francis Eaton, his first wife Sarah came with him with their son Samuel. He married a second wife and a third, Christian Penn, before 1627; he died in 1633. Samuel Eaton married in 1661 Martha Billington. In 1643 he was in the Plymouth military company, and was living in Duxbury in 1663. He removed to Middleboro, where he died about 1684.

Thomas English died the first winter. — Ely, a hired man, served his time and returned to England. Moses Fletcher married in Leyden in 1613 widow Sarah Dingby; he died during the first winter.

Edward Fuller came with his wife Ann and son Samuel; the parents died during the first season.

Samuel Fuller, the son, married in 1635 Jane, daughter of Rev. John Lothrop; he removed to Barnstable, where he died Oct. 31, 1683, having many descendants.

Dr. Samuel Fuller, brother of Edward, was the first physician; he married (1) Elsie Glascock, (2) Agnes Carpenter, (3) Bridget Lee; he died in 1633. His descendants of the name are through a son Samuel who settled in Middleboro.

Richard Gardiner, mariner, was in Plymouth in 1624, but soon disappeared.

John Goodman, unmarried, died the first winter. John Hooke died during the first winter. William Holbeck died during the first winter. Giles Hopkins, son of Stephen, married, in 1630, Catherine Wheldon, moved to Yarmouth, afterward Eastham; he died about 1690. Stephen Hopkins came with his second wife Elizabeth, and Giles and Constance, children by a first wife. On the voyage a child was born to them whom they named Oceanus, but who died in 1621. He was an assistant 1634-5, and died in 1644; his wife died between 1640 and 1644.

Constance, daughter of Stephen, married Nicholas Snow. They settled in Eastham, from which he was deputy in 1648, and he died Nov. 15, 1676; she died in October, 1677, having had twelve children.

Damaris, daughter of Stephen and Elizabeth Hopkins, was born after their arrival, and married Jacob Cooke.

John Howland married Elizabeth, daughter of John Tilley. He was a deputy 1641, '45 to '58, 61, 63, 66-7, '70. Assistant in 1634-5, also soldier in the Plymouth military company in 1643. He died Feb. 23, 1673, aged more than eighty years, and his widow died Dec. 21, 1637, aged eighty years. John Langmore died during the first winter. William Latham, about 1640, went to England from there to the Bahamas, where he probably died.

Edward Leister went to Virginia.

Edmond Margeson, unmarried, died in 1621.

Christopher Martin and wife both died early; his death occurred Jan. 8, 1621.

Desire Minter returned to England and died there.

Ellen More died the first winter.

Jasper More, a boy, died Dec. 6, 1620.

Richard More removed to Scituate, and his name is said to have become Mann. He died in Scituate in 1650; his brother died the first winter.

William Mullins came with wife, son Joseph, and daughter Priscilla, who married John Alden. The father died Feb. 21, 1621, and his wife during the first winter, as did also the son Joseph.

Solomon Power died Dec. 24, 1620.

Digory Priest married in 1611, at Leyden, widow Sarah Vincent, a sister of Isaac Allerton; he died Jan. 1, 1621.

John Rigdale came with his wife Alice, both dying during the first winter.

Joseph Rogers came with his father, Thomas Rogers, who died in 1621. The son married and lived in Eastham, in 1655; living first at Duxbury and Sandwich. He was a lieutenant, and died in 1678, at Eastham.

Henry Sampson settled in Duxbury and married Ann Plummer in 1636. He was of the Duxbury military company in 1643, and died there in 1684.

George Soule was married to Mary Becket. He was in the military company of Duxbury, where he resided, and was the deputy in 1645, 1646, 1650, 1651, 1653, 1654. He was an original proprietor of Bridgewater, and owner of land in Dartmouth and Middleboro; he died in 1680; his wife in 1677.

Ellas Story died the first winter.

Myles Standish died Jan. 20, 1621. He brought with him wife, Rose, who settled in Duxbury. He was the principal military leader of the Pilgrims. He was assistant 1632, 1635, 1637, 1641, 1645, 1650; treasurer 1644-50; deputy 1644. He died Oct. 3, 1650.

Edward Thompson died Dec. 4, 1620.

Edward Tilley with wife Ann, both died the first winter.

John Tilley came with his wife and daughter Elizabeth; the parents died the first winter, but the daughter survived and married John Howland.

Thomas Tinker, with wife and son, died the first winter.

John Turner came with two sons, but the party succumbed to the hardships of the first season.

William Trevore came as a sailor on the Mayflower and returned to England on the Fortune in 1621.

Richard Warren of Devon, Eng., his wife, widow Elizabeth (Jouatt) Marsh, came in the Ann in 1623; they have numerous descendants; he died in 1628, his widow, Oct. 2, 1673.

William White came with his wife, Susanna, and son, Resolved. A son, Peregrine, was born to them in Provincetown Harbor, who has been distinguished as being the first child of the Pilgrims born after the arrival in the New World. This is his strongest claim, as his early life was rather disreputable, though his obituary, in 1704, allowed "he was much reformed in his last years." William, the father, died on Feb. 21, 1621; his widow married in May, following, Edward, whose wife had recently died.

Resolved White married (1) Judith, daughter of William Vassall, he lived at Scituate, Marshfield, and finally, Salem, where he married (2) Oct. 3, 1674, widow.

← first line of H.

--- died 1621.

← last line of H.

--- died 1656

TEXT MISSING HERE

Roger Wilder died the first winter.
Thomas Williams died the first season.
Edward Winslow, son of Edward Drolitwich, Eng., married in Leyden in 618, Elizabeth Barker; she died March 21, 621, and he married (2) widow Susanna (Fuller) White and died at sea in 1654. He was agent for the colony and visited Eng. and several times in its interests. He was governor in 1633-4, 1636-7 and 1644-5; assistant, 1634, '35, '37, '38, '41, '43, '45 to '50.
Gilbert Winslow came with his father, but returned to England after 1624 and died in 1650.

A maidservant came in the Mayflower, name unknown, who died in a year or two.